

Is CFD trading and Spread Betting appropriate for me?

Trading CFDs and Spread betting is not appropriate for everyone and we would normally expect these products to be used by persons who:

- Have a high-risk tolerance
- Are trading with money that they can afford to lose
- Have experience with, and are comfortable trading on financial markets and understand the impact and risks associated with margin trading
- Generally, want to acquire short term exposure to financial instruments/markets
- Have a diversified investment and savings portfolio

CFDs and Spread Bets are offered for trading at OANDA on an execution only basis, meaning no advice or recommendation is given nor monitoring or risk management assistance provided. You are responsible for your own risk management; we do not monitor your positions to ensure they meet your personal financial goals.

These products are appropriate for the following individuals:

- Experience traders
- Inexperienced traders who understand the risks and who have disposable income
- Those with a high-risk tolerance
- Not appropriate for anyone who has low income and low savings